

CORPORATE

Zashin & Rich has extensive experience in corporate law. The firm represents small to large businesses, including corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies and sole proprietors. Business litigation services include shareholder disputes, contract claims, corporate collection matters, trade secret disclosures, non-compete violations and franchisee/franchisor disagreements. Zashin & Rich provides our clients with cost-effective litigation strategies and resolution mechanisms.

In addition, Zashin & Rich counsels clients in the selection of the appropriate type of entity for new and/or existing concerns. The firm has structured client enterprises as S, C and/or closely-held corporations, general and limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and sole proprietorships. Furthermore, the firm represents its clients in purchases, sales, mergers and acquisitions. In this regard, Zashin & Rich works closely with accountants and economists to determine entity valuation.

If you have any questions regarding our corporate practice, please contact Jonathan A. Rich.
